Featured Artist: Roxanne Ando

The MAA Gallery is featuring the delicate work of watercolorist

Roxanne Ando during the June show. This gentle painter loves the world of nature as anyone who has seen her paintings knows. Although of Japanese heritage---both sets of grandparents immigrated to the U.S. in the early 1900s---Roxanne grew up mostly in northern Virginia after travels typical of an "Army brat" family largely ceased. Her college education and law school took her to the Michigan, Russia and Boston, but she returned home, only to cross the border into DC and Maryland, where she has spent most of her adult life. Ando works part time in nonprofit management, pursuing another long-time passion: services for low-income elderly.

As with many members of MAA who didn't major in art in college, at a certain point in her professional and family life, there was time and a desire for exploring extracurricular activities. For Roxanne that came about 12 years ago, when she began taking a class in Chinese water color taught by local Chinese artist, Helen McCarthy. The class turned out to be a good match, and she continued studying the bird/flower tradition of Asian brush painting until her teacher retired. Since then Roxanne has been studying Chinese landscape painting with Freda Lee McCann. Part of the motivation for Ando to take up Asian brush painting in particular was "to connect to her heritage." A recent trip to Japan has reinforced that bond. "I took lots of photos of misty mountains, temples and shrines. Hopefully, that inspiration will start to be reflected in my work."

Ando told me it took three years before she did paintings she actually liked, and for a while, selling her work was not even a consideration. However, a friend encouraged her to join an art association as a way of breaking into marketing. She finds this a less intimidating way to sell her work and a great way to meet many wonderful artists. Today, she is a member of both MAA and the Hyattsville Community Artists Alliance, giving her many opportunities to show her work in Montgomery and Prince George's Counties. As I had looked at her works, I wondered if Ando was also working with traditional inks in addition to traditional watercolors--a fact she confirmed. Both media are used in Asian brush painting. Because of the long time it takes to master these media within the Asian traditions, Ando has not tried any other media but stated that she really hopes to explore acrylics and collage as soon as she can find a class or workshop that fits her schedule and isn't too much of a commute. When asked what was the hardest thing for her she replied, "You just put yourself out there, and for me, that part is difficult. When I first started I didn't realize just how hard it is to actually show your work". After a brief pause, Ando continued--"You really are putting yourself out there, a part of your heart and soul is in your work".

Among her favorite artists are Hokusai and Hiroshige, 18th century masters of the ukiyo-e who are considered National Treasures in Japan, and Andrei Rublev, a medieval Russian icon painter. One connection between these two disparate styles is the absence of linear perspective.

"I am greatly attracted to seeing the world from a different perspective." She also likes the French Impressionists because their, "...use of color and light captures a lot of emotional content." I can understand her references because like her favorite painters, Ando captures an immediate emotional response in her simple flowers. She has learned what to leave out, a major step for any artist. She works both in black and white and a lighter palette.

Peony, by Roxanne Ando

Mums the Word, by Roxanne Ando

Her brush strokes are light, delicate, her ink and watercolor often transparent, something very typically of Japanese and Chinese ink and watercolor painting. The observer can easily see that Ando uses traditional brushes in the strokes of her painting. Since Ando's last show with MAA, her work has become more secure and looser as she continues to become more secure with the handling of her brushed and materials. As for the future,

Ando says, "As long as I continue to enjoy painting, and hopefully bring some enjoyment to others, I will keep it up."

Please come and see Ando's wonderful gifts to the continuing traditions of Japanese and Chinese painting. Roxanne's show at the MAA Gallery begins on Wednesday, June 1 and runs through Sunday, June 26. There will be a Meet the Artist Reception on Sunday, June 5 from 1:00 – 5:00 PM.

President's Message

It's that time again when we switch complaining about it being cold, wet and dreary to how hot and humid it is. But after so much rain, it will be nice to see some warm weather. Those of you who like to paint outdoors will be free to enjoy the many venues available in this area.

Although our MAA monthly meetings will take a hiatus until the Fall, plenty of MAA show opportunities continue. The Wheaton Mall MAA Gallery is there for you, as are many of our special exhibit venues that can be found on our website. Many of us will have extra time, inclination and travel opportunities to stimulate our creative artistic juices from now to then.

Our 2016 Kensington "Paint the Town" show promises to be better than ever. As a reminder, this year's show will be held on Saturday, September 3 through Monday, September 5-Labor Day. The Board of Directors has implemented some changes that we think will add to the already high quality of our signature event. For example, in order to better show off and highlight the artwork, we are limiting the number of artworks per entrant to 5 this year. Last year, the sheer volume of entries forced us to display some artwork in not the most optimal fashion. We have made adjustments to assure that every piece of art submitted gets a fair placement in the Armory.

We will also have the usual adult and children's "Paint the Town Plein Air Competition" on Saturday and, again, hold a special Invitational Award category competition. As you know, the Best in Show Bertha Clum Award, sponsored by the Town of Kensington, is selected from the Kensington category entries.

Speaking of that, I intend to pay an early visit to Kensington to scope out and create the required Kensington piece needed to enter the Labor Day "Paint the Town" show. We have begun our initial promotions for the show so don't wait until the last moment to figure out what you will be painting. It's NEVER too early! So make yours the best ever this year by capturing the spirit of life in Kensington.

Pulling off this show is an enormous task. Everyone who enters is required to volunteer to help. Michael Shibley is the Paint the Town show coordinator again this year. So when he asks for your extra help – please say "YES, of course, how can I help?"

I also want to call your attention to our Featured Artist for this month—Roxanne Ando. Her beautiful paintings will be featured in the MAA Gallery beginning Wednesday, June 1 and running through Sunday, June 26. You will have an opportunity to meet and talk with Roxanne at her reception on Sunday, June 5 from 1:00 – 5:00 PM in the Gallery. You should come by to offer your support to your fellow artist as she puts her work front center at the Gallery. Hope to see you there.

Finally, as President, and on behalf of us all, I wish to thank Natalie Falk and Michael Shibley for designing, editing and producing our wonderful Newsletter for many, many years – THANK YOU! Lisa Mathias, has graciously agreed to take on the editorship – thank you Lisa. We promise to send you the information and news items that make our Newsletter both interesting and informative.

That's all the new for now.

MAA Meeting & Newsletter Reminder

October, 2016

MAA would like to thank Ed Moore from Plaza Artist Materials for his presentation at our May members meeting. His input is always appreciated. Ed has been a supporter of MAA over the years and we want to thank him.

Please remember that our monthly programs have concluded for this season. Our programs will resume in October after the Labor Day Paint the Town Show. This is also the last Newsletter until August as we take a brief summer break in July.

In the meantime, please remember that the deadline for content for the Newsletter is the 20th of the month prior to the month of publication. So if you want an announcement in the newsletter for August you will need to provide it to Lisa Mathias by July 20. I encourage all members to send in materials for the newsletter. This is your communication vehicle. Take advantage of it. If you have a show coming up or you won an award or you just want to write an article, please let me know. We welcome your input. Please send your content and event information to Lisa Mathias at info@lisamathias.com. Thanks

The deadline for submissions for the August newsletter is July 20.

It has been my pleasure to serve as the Editor of the MAA Newsletter for the past seven years. My newsletter team consisting of Natalie Falk, Judith Levine, Cathy Hirsh and several MAA presidents has done its best to keep you updated on show opportunities as well as other art news of interest. We published eleven newsletters a year during that time. I want to thank each of them individually for their dedication to making our newsletter the best in the area. Special thanks to Natalie for her work in developing the creative and colorful format we currently use. Her skill at making a dull set of Word files and photos into a wonderfully appealing newsletter is still amazing to me. So thanks Natalie for all of your support. Judith Levine has provided her arts calendar each month to give you an idea of what is going on in the local galleries. She has also completed all of the interviews of our Featured Artists at the MAA Gallery. My thanks to Judith for her time and dedication. Cathy Hirsh, who has served so many roles at MAA over the years, was my dependable source for the Calendar of MAA events that keep everyone posted on deadlines, etc. You may not know that she also keeps the MAA website up to date and is responsible to getting Newsletter text posted each month. Thank you Cathy for your timely updates and your help in so many ways.

I would be remiss if I didn't thank MAA member, Sharon Callagy, who voluntarily contributed numerous book and museum reviews over the last seven years. Her help and content suggestions are much appreciated. Thank

Eligible media include: acrylics, oils, watercolors, pastels, drawings, printmaking, photography, digital art, sculpture, installations, wood, glass, ceramics, fiber art, and mixed media. Media not accepted: video/film, wearable art (clothing or jewelry). Cash awards totaling $4,500 will be distributed as follows: Best of Show, $1,200; Second Place - $1,000; Third Place - $750; Founder's Award of Distinction - $500; (3) Merit Awards - $250 each; (3) Honorable Mentions - $100 each. The registration fee is $35 for 3 images. The deadline for application is June 30, 2016. To apply, please visit <http://www.artkudos.com/prospectus.html>

you, Sharon.

Thanks also to all the other MAA members who provided timely information for inclusion in the Newsletter over the years. Without your interest and cooperation with our production schedule each month, we would not have the content to fill our Newsletter. While I can't thank you all individually, you know who you are and that I appreciate your contributions.

Brooks (1874-1970), technically an American, was born in Rome and lived mostly in Paris. Raised in a home with a mother and brother who were both severely mentally ill (remember, these people received little or no treatment back then), and herself a lesbian, she herself remained socially isolated most of her life. Brooks all but stopped painting after she turned 40. We are fortunate that she left us with these superlative portraits.
