MAA GALLERY—APRIL

Featured Artist of the Month: Barrie Ripin

By Judith Levine

April will see the Featured Artist wall at the MAA Gallery covered in paintings by Barrie Ripin, who is also the current MAA treasurer. He will be including examples of his sculpture in the show. A lengthy conversation held at the MAA Gallery revealed that he is an affable, humorous, and a very approachable person. The word 'passionate' also applies.

Ripin was born and raised in upstate New York. He did a lot of 'self-taught' painting, mostly landscapes, in acrylic and oils as a kid, but never imagined art as a profession. He stopped painting when he began his college studies. Barrie moved to the DC area to attend graduate school at the University of Maryland where he met his wife, Marilyn. He earned his Ph.D. in physics and embarked on a career doing experimental plasma physics research—more than 20 years of which was spent at the Naval Research Laboratory (next to Blue Plains). Plasma, often called the fourth state of matter, is a field which in part is being explored to study space and to find new ways to create sustainable safe energy. "We created mini-supernovas in the lab", he said.

Barrie left NRL in 1995 to become Associate Director of the American Physical Society. He then received a fellowship in 2001 to work at the U.S. State Department where he negotiated several treaties and founded programs to foster cooperative scientific programs with partners in South Asia. As he talked, the passion mentioned earlier was most observable. The key word that kept popping up was 'create'.

In 2006, the artist received a birthday gift from his wife—a basic drawing class at the Smithsonian Institution. As an extra bonus, she took the class with him. Currently, she has been focusing on quilting and making tallit (Jewish prayer shawls) for their family. To MAA's good fortune, Barrie found his love of painting re-awakened. The class sparked his creative art juices that would be continued in a variety of classes at places such as The Art League in Alexandria and the Yellow Barn. Ripin kept putting his work into the Art League's juried monthly shows (without success) hoping to get exhibited. The Gallery Director noticed his persistence and wrote a little article about him in their newsletter. Then—bingo!

It is obvious to even a casual observer that Ripin is fascinated with portraiture and the human body. "What draws me to figure art is its challenge. And I love to experiment with new media and technique." Sculpture soon entered the mix. "Some artists like to work in one medium and raise their skill to as high a level as they can. I love to try different media and find new ways of using them as art tools. Similar to what I did as a scientist." Ripin said he always looked for new problems to solve as a scientist "and now, in art, in a sense, I am doing the same thing." One word comes to mind when viewing Ripin's works and that is 'sinuous'. His figures drape across the paper and canvas, caught in a fleeting moment of stillness. They are rich and full of life. Turning and twisting, they leap from the paper. His portraits have an inner life that makes you want to get to know them even better. It is obvious that he has an affinity for the body and almost instinctively understands its anatomy. His shading is strong and delicate at the same time. His sculptures make your fingers itch to touch them, something the artist has in common with two of his favorite sculptors, Rodin and Degas. Ripin said that for figures and portraits: "I need a live model to do my best. For landscapes I usually use my own photos. I love doing plein air and enjoy the times I am doing it, but ...with the way I work, it takes too long [for me to complete]".

Barrie Ripin

He has no idea what his work will look like down the road. Ripin takes each day as it comes. Until two years ago, he would never have seen sculpture as part of his life. He said that he had begun sculpting to solidify his understanding of anatomy. "Typical of a scientist, I delight in continually exploring or creating new approaches in both technique and subject matter – always looking for that discovery that will uncover a fresh new view. Bottom line, I am the envy of many of my retired friends because I know what I want to do every day. How delightful that a day rarely passes without putting pigment to paper or canvas or getting covered with clay!" How delightful for his viewers!!

Barrie's art will be on display in the Gallery beginning Thursday, March 29 and continuing through Sunday, April 29. An artist's reception will be held on Sunday, April 1 from 1-5 PM in the Gallery. Please, take the time to come by and see the work of this talented member of MAA!

MAA MEETING

april 11, 2012

Please be reminded that the next MAA meeting will be held at Plaza Art on Rockville Pike on Wednesday, April 11, 2012. The socializing will begin at 6:30 followed by business at 7 PM.

Before we move to this month's program, we offer a huge thanks to Donna Barron for her presentation last month. Thanks, Donna!

This month's activity set up by Julie Smith will feature the always popular critique session. We are pleased to announce that Ed Moore from Plaza Art will lead the critique. Please note that the following rules will be followed to try to assure that everyone gets a critique in the limited time allotted:

- ▶ Artists should bring only one piece. Each critique will be held to 2 minutes.
- ▶ Artists should identify whether the piece is "in progress" or finished.
- ▶ Artists should indicate the reason for wanting a critique, i.e., whether they have a specific question or just want a reaction.
- ▶ Critiques should be offered in the spirit of helping fellow artists solve problems and create stronger art.

The members know Ed from his work at Plaza and for his support of MAA over the years as an artistic advisor, show judge, and, of course, a fellow artist.

Our recent critiques have been very well attended so plan to get there early to secure your seat. The room will fill up quickly.

Plaza Art is located on the east side of Rockville Pike, Rte 355, between Halpine Road and Congressional Lane in the same shopping center with Pier 1 and Fuddrucker's. Phone 301-770-0500. Ample parking is available.

Deadline for submissions for the May MAA News is April 15.

President's Message

What a beautiful and VERY early spring we are having! The weeds have gone crazy—at least in my yard. But, with the earlier warmer temperatures, flowers and foliage will be here sooner for those bouquet and plein air landscape paintings. Don't let this great season get away from you!

We have major shows coming up, and you need to be planning your entries. Our annual June Friendship Heights show is a judged, members-only exhibit with awards. On Labor Day weekend, we will also have our big annual Kensington "Paint the Town" Labor Day show. Participation in this show requires one entry reflecting the spirit and/or community of Kensington (zip code 20895) so make sure you allow time to get that piece done. Information on how to enter these shows will be in future newsletters.

The election for next year's officers will be conducted during April, and I encourage all of you to vote when you receive the email ballot. You will find the proposed slate of officers elsewhere in this newsletter. While we have candidates for all the named positions, there is definitely opportunity for new participants in MAA leadership. I'm sure many of you have ideas for new initiatives and I know the Board does also. All that's needed are people interested and willing to help bring these exciting opportunities to fruition.

Likewise, we are looking for additional help for the Labor Day show. Debra Halprin will once again be the show chairperson and has the tasks well-organized. Use this opportunity to help while at the same time build your skills in show management. Your solo and other group shows will likely not be as big as this show, but I've found what I've learned has been very helpful and applicable to my own events. And besides, it really is a fun activity giving a sense of accomplishment and the opportunity to get to know more of your fellow "MAA'ers".

At the Gallery, the Costco construction has made our Westfield Wheaton hallway quieter. But even so, the Gallery continues to do very well (highest ever sales in February!) thanks to the efforts of the featured artists and the steady build-up of our clientele. Every month, our publicity chairperson, Vicky Surles, sends out email announcements to a large client list from past Kensington and Gallery shows. It is clear this type of promotion works because we always have visits early in the month from "regulars" checking out the latest show. To show in the Gallery, you only have to be a member and be willing to sit two 4-hour shifts while your work is on display. Further info on participation and show dates can be found in the "Upcoming Dates" article.

Westfield is also allowing us to do demos and art sales outside in the mall area to attract additional "walk-in" attention. They have also prepared a sign for us that has been placed out in the Mall corridor directing people to the Gallery. We're still working on procedures, but we will likely do a combination of art demos, sale of Gallery work, and solo shows of "weekend artists" in the mall area during weekends. If you're interested in participating, just contact me at hirshcathy@gmail.com.

I was out of town, but I understand the field trip to the National Museum for Women in the Arts was outstanding with a great exhibit and a wonderful docent. A photo of the participants is included in the newsletter. Doing the group field trips allows us to get a docent, and even if you've been to the museum or exhibit before, the docents always provide new insights. It's a great opportunity, and if you have ideas for future field trips, contact our Activities Chairperson, Sara Becker, at thebeckers6400@verizon.net. Thanks to Sara for organizing this successful event.

Once again, our Program Chairperson, Julie Smith, organized a terrific program at the last monthly meeting with artist and instructor, Donna Baron, as our speaker. Next month's program will be the ever-popular members' critique. The April 11 program will start at 7:00 pm with a social time beginning at 6:30 pm at Plaza Art in Rockville.

Finally, don't forget the membership contest I announced last month. We are trying to reach 200 members by the Labor Day show and we are getting closer every week. At the Labor Day show's reception, we will give a Plaza gift certificate to the member who recruits the most new members between March and Labor Day, and if we reach 200, we'll also give a gift certificate to #200. So get out there and sign up your artist friends who may not currently be members of MAA. They will be very happy you did.

Till next time,
Cathy Hirsh

MAA Members At NMWA Tour

MAA Field Trip Is A Success

Thanks to everyone who joined Sara Becker in our most recent local museum exhibits. We had a great tour of the NMWA Royalists to Romantics exhibit here on tour from France. Our docent was very nice and said she especially enjoyed showing this exhibit to us being that we were artists too. We got a bit of a history lesson at the same time and learned of the unfortunate fate of more than one of these wonderfully skilled women artists. It is quite illuminating hearing of what some of them had to go through to get their art into the accepted circle of admirers.

We hope to do another visit, this time to the National Gallery of Art. They have a special tour that will be especially interesting to us artists. It is available Friday's at 12:30 over the coming month so let me know if you'd like to participate and hopefully we can find a mutually convenient time to go. More information is below.

Member Shows, Exhibitions & Opportunities

MAA members should plan to visit the artist member show at Strathmore that begins March 27 and runs through April 21. A complete list of MAA members who were juried into the show will be printed in the May issue.

The Pate Painter's, a group of eight MAA members, will be having an exhibition at Gallery B in Bethesda during the month of May. The exhibit will be open Thursday through Sunday. Hours are to be determined and will appear in the May issue. The members are Debra Halprin, Julie Smith, Barrie Ripin, Noble Veirs, Michael Shibley, Carol Bouville, Marian Mackerrer and Janet Schroeder.

Renewal Time At Tables and Chairs

It is time to change over our exhibit at the Table's and Chairs at White Flint mall. Remember this is for large scale works only. Everyone asking to join the exhibit must also help hang it. We did not have enough people to help last time. Please let Sara Becker know of your interest at thebeckers6400@verizon.net

Welcome New Members!!! The Drive to 200!!

With the spring painting season upon us, we welcome three more new members to our MAA family of artists. They are Barbara Brickman, Rosalind Alumanah, and Susan Moran. As of this issue of the MAA News, our membership number stands at an all-time high of 177!! Please welcome Barbara, Rosalind and Susan to the best art association in the area.

Again, we are so very close to our goal of 200 members. In last month's issue and again in the current President's Message, President Cathy Hirsh has laid down a membership challenge. The current member who recruits the most new members between now and the Labor Day Show in Kensington will receive a gift certificate from MAA. And, the new member who represents number 200 will also receive a gift certificate. Let's have some fun with this and see who can sign up the most members. We all know artists who could benefit from membership in our terrific organization. As Cathy points out, over the last few years, we have developed a reputation as one of the most progressive and exciting local art associations in the metropolitan area.

To reach our goal we only need 23 new members over the next six months. That's just a little over 4 per month between April and September. If you recruit a new member, be sure to have them list you as the "sponsor" so that we can keep tabs on who should win the gift certificates.

Why is this important to our association? It's important because it allows us to continue to expand the benefits we can offer to YOU, the member. We have launched some exciting new initiatives this year with the development of a new MAA website. But it's not just a website. It will help us automate much of what we do during the course of the year such as registration for events, signing up for Gallery times, submitting work to the gallery, tracking our membership records, and so much more. Those developments are not possible without continued growth in our membership. We lose a certain number of members each year and those have to be replaced just to allow us to stay even. So when we lose a member we have to recruit two new ones in order to grow.

Membership is the life-blood of any association. One of the many things we have learned from the Gallery is that there is a pool of local artists whom we have never been able to reach. These artists are hungry to find a home for their talents and a place to be able to share their art and learn from others. So let's go for it.

There is no better membership deal in the Washington area art association market than MAA!!!!

We apologize to any members whose names are not listed. We will catch up with you next month.

Alyson Shotz: Ecliptic

February 16–May 27, 2012
“Ecliptic—three interrelated large-scale drawings made of yarn looped over thousands of nails—investigates spatial perception and engages the architecture of the gallery. The installation, like much of Shotz’s work, is inspired by science, referencing the solar system and the perpetual rotation of planets. At once monumental and delicate, flat and three-dimensional, Ecliptic transforms the room into a weightless environment.”

The Baroque Genius of Giovanni Benedetto Castiglione

January 29–July 8, 2012
Giovanni Benedetto Castiglione (1609–1664) has long been considered a major master of the

Castiglione

Baroque. He was both a master of drawing and print making. The influences of Rembrandt and Claude Lorrain can be seen in many of the 80 works. Castiglione would eventually go on to influence later artists including Tiepolo and Piranesi, Watteau, and Boucher.

Modern Lab: Material Interventions

February 11, 2012–August 2012

The term mixed media refers, for this exhibition, not only to materials but also to type. Sculpture, painting, drawing, photography are all made with often unexpected materials. It may give a viewing artist inspiration to try something completely out of his/her comfort zone.

Doug Aitken: SONG 1

March 22, 2012 to May 13, 2012

This is best seen in late evening or after dark. Aitken’s work will be shown on the outer wall of the building. It is a multimedia piece that uses light, actors and music. Certainly anyone working in or using digital medium should make this a ‘must see’ work.

Dark Matters: Selections from the Collection

February 3, 2012 to May 13, 2012

This show explores the use of darkness, including the absence of light. Sculpture, painting, photography, and video are used to see what the artists find in the dark.

Ai Weiwei: According to What?

October 2012 to February 2013

“This major survey of his work will include examples from the broad spectrum of his artistic

Along with a new work by Aitken, which will transform the gallery’s façade, this group of works will explore the evolving Light and Space movement of the 1950’s through the work of five pivotal Latin American artists: Carlos Cruz-Diez (b. Caracas, Venezuela, 1923), Lucio Fontana (b. Rosario, Argentina, 1899; d. Varese, Italy, 1968), Julio Le Parc (b. Mendoza, Argentina, 1928), Hélio Oiticica (b. Rio de Janeiro,

Touch and the Enjoyment of Sculpture: Exploring the Appeal of Renaissance Statuettes

Saturday, January 21—Sunday, April 15, 2012
"This groundbreaking focus show explores the implications of tactile perception for enjoying sculpture by melding the research of a Johns Hopkins University neuroscientist studying how the brain reacts to tactile stimuli and a Walters curator interested in the increased appreciation of tactility as an aspect of European Renaissance art—a period marked by a new availability of small "collectibles" meant to be held. Did artists anticipate a reaction to tactile stimulus in shaping sculpture, specifically statuettes of female nudes? Visitors can hold and register their evaluations of replicas of "appealing" statuettes, as well as variants assumed to be unappealing. Displays illustrate the Renaissance attitudes towards touch, the sensation of touch being stimulated without actual contact and the neural processing and perception of objects during touch."
